

New Animal Feed Additive:
AllTech NuPro[®] changing the face of feed in young animal nutrition

An animal never gets over a good or a bad start. One natural feed additive that is changing the face of feed in young animal nutrition is NuPro[®] from Alltech[®].

NuPro is a yeast derived protein containing highly concentrated levels of essential and functional nutrients. It is formulated into the diets of young animals to support digestive efficiency through precise nutrition.

NuPro must be formulated into the young animals' diets in order to be most effective and efficient. Benefits include: improved growth performance; improved palatability resulting in increased feed and nutrient intake; and enhanced maturation rate of villi improving area available for nutrient absorption in the small intestine.
